What the Future Holds: New Eras and Opportunities in State and Federal Transportation Policy and Funding?

Sponsored by Mott MacDonald

As we navigate uncertainties, challenges and opportunities at state and federal levels, join us as our CEO panel provides insights, predictions and a call to action about the future of transportation and funding for Southern California. Reauthorization of the big federal transportation bill is around the corner, and the new Administration is mixing things up. At the state level, current and looming budget deficits, and a new willingness to rethink some long-held policies, will shape the near-term future. Local control, project implementation innovations and goods movement will round out the discussion. Partnerships will be key as our region competes for critical transportation funding.

Meb Keflezighi

Olympic Marathon Runner

Fireside Chat with Mobility 21 Chair, Aaron Hake, Executive Director, Riverside County Transportation Commission

Meb Keflezighi is the only runner in history to have won the New York City Marathon, the Boston Marathon and an Olympic medal. In 2009, Keflezighi became the first American since 1982 to win the New York City Marathon. He finished in the top 10 in New York eight times and was the top American seven times. In 2015, he set a TCS New York City Marathon masters event record of 2:13:32.

In 2014, Keflezighi won the Boston Marathon, becoming the first American man to do so since 1983. The win, in a personal-best 2:08:37, lengthened the 2004 Olympic marathon silver medalist's stay at the top of the U.S. ranks. He placed fourth in the London 2012 Olympic marathon. Keflezighi raced his 26th and final career marathon at the 2017 TCS New York City Marathon, running as an NYRR Team for Kids Ambassador.

Born in Eritrea, Keflezighi became a U.S. citizen in 1998 and won four NCAA titles while at UCLA. He set a 10,000-meter national record of 27:13.98 in 2001 that stood for nine years.
